CALIFORNIANS IN FAVOR OF LEAGUE

Telegram Urging Ratification of Treaty Is Read to Senate and Sharp Discussion Follows.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The senate jumped into a discussion of the peace treaty today two hours ahead of its schedule. When the session began Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, leader of the administration forces, presented a telegram from the Los Angeles branch of the League to Enforce Peace, saying among other things that "the people of California were overwhelmingly in favor of the league."

References in the telegram to Senator Johnson, Republican, new sharp comment from Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho.

"Maybe the senator from California will be able to recoup his Republican losses in California by Democratic gains in Massachusetts," said Senator Borah, in asking that the platform adopted by the Democrats of Massachusetts opposing the league covenant as framed, be put in the record.

"Why not insert the platform adopted by the Massachusetts Republicans which might throw light on this subject," said Senator Nelson, Republican, Minnesota. Senator Borah did so and added that notwithstanding the president's wish, there seemed to be danger of getting the league in every political arena.

Senator Hitchcock declared that in presenting the telegram it was not his purpose to show that Senator Johnson had lost personal following but that Republicans of high standing and every calling in California and some of the senator's former campaign managers "repudiated Senator Johnson's action on the League of Nations."

Pigeons in European Cities.

The pigeons of London are one of the sights to which the attention of visitors is always drawn. St. Paul's churchyard is a great place of gathering, and here the birds flock down for the midday meal spread for their benefit. They feed out of the hands of their benefactors, perch on their shoulders, and flap and glitter in the sunshine as they fly up and down. Pigeons seem to belong to certain places. Admiralty arch is another favorite resort, but all over the city the birds have small colonies, and crowds of faithful friends. In Venice and in Florence the pigeons are as much a part of the picture as the greatest buildings, a finishing touch, as it were, with which nobody can dispense.

Wheat in History.

The Romans introduced wheat into Great Britain. They did not have to carry it far, because before they invaded Britain they had conquered Gaul, the France of modern times, and the Gauls were growing large crops of wheat when the Romans crossed to the western islands. The Britons began to grow wheat, and the Saxons continued the work. Still, through the Middle Ages the bread of the poorer classes was made of flour from the coarser grains.

Value of Uncooked Food.

Man cannot digest and assimilate the mineral elements in rock; hence it is necessary for him to get the elements for structural work from fruits and vegetables, in their fresh, uncooked state; for cooking destroys the chemistry—the chemical synthesis with albumin is lost.—J. H. Tilden, M. D.

Most Valuable Plant.

No plant renders man greater service than does the wheat, because it supplies to the greater part—and the better part, too—of the western world its staff of life. From wheat the leading nations of the earth obtain their bread.

Peruvian Flower Festival.

Peru celebrates a custom which dates from soon after the Spanish conquest. All soldiers' graves alike are decorated, including those of peons and Indians, individuals little regarded in Peru, at all events during life. In the evening the populace gives itself over to feasting and merrymaking. This particular flower festival is held annually on November 1.

Reason for Optimism.

"Some men are optimists," said Uncle Eben, "for of reason that it's most times easier to sell a man supply by tellin' him a funny story dan it is by tellin' him de truth."

Great and Small Things.

We are to fond of our own will. We want to be doing what we fancy mighty things; but the great point is, to do small things, when called to them, in a right spirit.—R. Cecil.

Punishment.

The whole of life and experience goes to show, that right or wrong doing, whether as to the physical or the spiritual nature, is sure in the end, to meet its appropriate reward or punishment. Penalties may be delayed, but they are sure to come.

Ship Tonnage.

Tonnage is the internal cubic capacity of a vessel expressed in tons, now reckoned at 100 cubic feet each; of the freight-carrying capacity of a vessel, as estimated in tons of 40 cubic feet each.

Beneath the Husk.

The toughest nut any man ever tried to crack is a selfish heart. It takes a giant hammer, swung by superhuman power to do that. But once the shell is broken, the sweetest meat ever tasted drops out.

MOTOR BANDITS.

The bandits who descended upon business places, commit robbery and get away by automobiles, are one of civilization's latest perils. They may light on the remote country bank, or the crowded metropolitan business. Only a few days ago they looted four hotels under the nose of New York police, and then robbed a Brooklyn store of $7,000 worth of bonds and $1000 in cash. Police forces everywhere will have to study plans for capturing such fellows. They are likely to hit next in Newark as anywhere.

In case of a successful getaway by thieves using an automobile, the first thought is to get the number of the car. Police officers should understand that it is of the most importance that all cars be required to carry their license number, and that these must be kept clean and well lighted at night. But even then the robbers may use a false number plate, removing it as soon as possible.

Police and detectives everywhere will have to make plans for very swift action to head off these criminals. In small cities and towns, it ought to be possible, within a few moments after such a break to notify garages and police all along outlying roads to look out for a certain type of car with number if possible. Liberal rewards should be offered for assistance.

In big cities with their swarm of cars in constant motion the problem is more difficult. Still modern systems of police telephones should make it possible to spread the news of such an escape through an entire city police force within a very short time. The automobile is swift, but the telephone is swifter. Speedily heavy sentences might well be imposed when such thieves are caught, for using a means of escape full of peril to the public.

So far no opposition to quarantining influenza cases is heard from the insurance companies that had to pay out $120,000,000 in death claims on account of this disease last winter.

BASEBALL FOR CRIME.

A man recently arraigned at Norristown, Penna., has spent nearly 30 years in jail for minor thefts, in which the amount of property stolen did not total over $100. It was a pathetic example of a large class of old rounders, who go on over and over in the same dreary round of crime and punishment.

The old type of jails do not reform these habitual offenders. Is there anything that could be done to arrest their fall before this habit of wrong doing is formed.

One authority said in a recent address, that he believed that athletic sports like baseball were more useful in this direction than any force. In a game like baseball, he said, there is the opportunity for craft and strategy, for getting the better of others by false motions and other legitimate forms of misleading an opponent. He felt that a boy with a love for wiles and tricks, would get that longing satisfied by the game.

Some people might say that such a fellow would have this crooked tendency accentuated by constantly practicing it in baseball. But if he carried his trickiness too far, he would find himself exceedingly unpopular. He is forced to play fair. His love for outwitting people finds an outlet, and his attention is diverted from abnormal to normal way of doing it. It may tide him over a dangerous age, until he can maturely decide between right and wrong.

The theory sounds reasonable. It is rare that you hear of any good ball player being in court for any crime. All social workers say juvenile crime diminishes where there are playgrounds and organized play. Let the bad boy steal bases instead of fruit, and he may come out all right.

ORGANIZING ATHLETICS.

Formerly athletic life was something that was developed only in summer. Nowadays sport has become an all the year around proposition. Football succeeds baseball and when winter comes basketball, bowling and hockey if there is ice, keep young athletes on the jump. More towns are constantly forming athletic associations whose purpose it is to see that a constant round of sports is kept up. And then there is golf which is exceedingly popular with a growing number of men here in Newark.

Athletic games are not to be thought of merely as amusements with which young people and some older folks like time. They are indeed the kind of amusement that does the most to interest young Americans. But they go far beyond that. They are the means by which people keep themselves in good physical condition, and tone themselves up for the best efficiency in their daily life.

If you could take two groups of men and let the first find their divisions in attending dances and theatres and parties and playing cards and billiards and other games of the kind, and let the other play tennis and baseball and basketball and the other active sports, you would find the second group in far better physical shape and very much fitter for work. The other diversions serve their purpose, but they bear only indirectly upon physical development.

Every community therefore should have its organized athletics which should offer all kinds of sport to men who desire to keep well and efficient. It is particularly desirable to have such winter games offered, since that is the time when people need the most inducement to exercise. Both the country towns and the city neighborhood should have their basketball floor and their bowling alleys and other games run under clean and healthful conditions, where old and young can find physical invigoration after the strain of work and worry.

The Kansas superintendent of public instruction is opposed to night study by school children. Yes, it is a good deal of a strain for the children to spend five hours a day trying to get ahead of the teacher.

Satisfaction is expressed by the women who got 25 cents bargains at the army food stores, even if they tore a $25.00 dress in the rush for the counters.

In automobile accidents the offending motorist was always driving very slowly, but his steering gear at just that instant took a notion to get out of order.

Among the people who are strong believers in publicity are those who are always asking the newspaper man for free notices about their business.

The farmers are urged to raise more sheep as the dogs most everywhere are getting tired of a diet of bones and table scraps.

It is reported that the number of moonshine nights now very largely exceeds those shown in the almanac.

Cookladies can now be hired for $12 a week to sit in the parlor and direct the work of the mistress.

Rubber car protectors for swimmers and persons who have their hair shampooed have been invented by a Minnesota woman.

Faultless Logic.
Aunt Caline says—Last night Eb Snoots came round next here with his new big car an' ast I an' Zeke to go fer a ride. So after we got started he says, "I've got a little room an' I guess we'll go an' git Maggie Zeen," says he. An' we done so. Maggie's a beautiful-like. An' she pleased to go an' ast said as much. Little Ben, which were a-setting there astudying his arithmetic, looked up an' says, "Kin I go too?" An' Eb says, "Why sure you kin." So Eb an' I started to git his cap but Maggie says, "You better not go, Ben, fer you hain't got your lesson an' if you don't no at the teacher you'll be used to tomorrow," she says. "Aw," says Ben, "she won't do nothing. A person can't be punished fer something he hain't did, can he?" he says. "No," says Maggie, doubtful-like. "Well," says Ben, agoging out, "that makes it all rite fer I hain't did my arithmetic," he says.

LEAGUE OR ARMY.

(Philadelphia Record.)

Why is the Administration urging the ratification of the treaty, including the covenant of the League of Nations, and an army of 500,000 men? Because it must have the army or the League, and Messrs. Knox, Lodge, Borah and Johnson are determined that we shall not have the League.

If there is no League of Nations we are back in the conditions of 1914, when each nation kept an army ready to strike instantly, and it precipitated a war which might have been avoided by a little diplomacy because the war might come, anyway, and there was a great advantage in striking first and locating the seat of war in the enemy's country.

The countries that did not keep prepared for war at any moment, and that were so anxious for peace that they did not strike the first blow while diplomacy was at work, were at a great disadvantage. Ultimately they were defeated. It took more than four years of desperate fighting, and it left France, Belgium, Serbia and Poland devastated. Such a thing ought not to occur again, but the only way of preventing it is to have a League of Nations agreed to prevent an attack by one nation on another.

Had the League of Nations been in existence five years ago there would have been no war. Germany would not have attacked France and Russia if there had been. This explains the opposition of Germany in The Hague Conference to which the American delegates did their utmost to effect. Germany did not mind attacking one or two or three nations, but it would not have attacked the world. It would not have attacked any nation if the rest of the nations had agreed to go to its rescue.

We have got to have a formidable army and navy, not only until the peace treaty is ratified in its entirety, but until the League of Nations is organized and in working order. Then we can reduce our army and navy to what they were in 1914. And if the members of the League will agree on a reduction of armaments we can well afford to reduce our army and navy below what they were in 1914. Until then we must keep the revolver in the pocket and the hand on the trigger.

Knox, Lodge and Borah are maintaining the position of Germany at The Hague, and are doing it for the same reason. They are forcing a military policy on the country. We have got to have a big army and navy until we get the League.

ONLY A NIGHTMARE.

(Des Moines Register.)
With a series of assumptions which it maintains to be possible, but admits to be "politically improbable," the Chicago Tribune draws a picture of the future with several nations of the British empire holding seats in the council.

Thus in an imaginative reel we see the council of nine including the United States as one, France of one, Italy as one, Japan as one, and Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and Great Britain as the others. But hold! This is too many. Unless we are to have an expanded council one has got to be struck off. Since neither of the five major powers can be ousted, and since the British empire is one of them, it is, as the Tribune says, "politically improbable" that such a problem as this should arrive. Still, expansion of the council is possible, it is expected that Germany and it is hoped that Russia may eventually get in. So let us suppose, along with the Tribune, that the worst of all its dreams should come true, and that the council should consist of ten members, and that six of them were nations composing what is now the British empire.

Panastic as it is, foolish as it is, let us suppose it. And what situation then do have as to actual voting power? What possibility then do we have of coercion of the United States by preponderant British votes? The Tribune itself in other words asks the question. Since a unanimous vote of the council is invariably required on any question that could possibly come before it, the answer is that the one absolute veto possessed by the United States would be the exact equivalent of all the other votes in the council in its ability to block a decision whether these other votes are eight or eighteen.

The irresistible tendency of the nations is and always has been to oppose the power that sought world hegemony and for reasons that reason the League idea has appeared to the world the one practical way of avoiding it. The very success of anti-British propaganda in ## Ovumation.

We suppose Senator Reed will come back and tell that he received a regular ovulation, justifying himself in the statement by the fact that the Latin word ovum means egg.

Words, Empty Words.
The women are gradually obtaining recognition even in the Episcopal church and we suppose when the word is promulgated to obey is eliminated from the marriage ceremony a solemn agreement by the bridegroom to clean out the bathtub after using will be substituted therefor.—Oyster State Journal.

Still, we should not look for that agreement to be observed with any more fidelity than the other.

An Enigma.

That she does in choosing a husband."

"One would think it would be just the very reverse."
Observed Ebenezer McRainjim:
"For she not only takes him for better or worse,
But it costs so much more to exchange him."

Did You Know
That ogee is a word consisting of two curves, one concave and the other convex? It is called in classic architecture Cymatum or Cyma Reversa. The ogee is also much used in Gothic architecture. An arch which is side formed with two contrasted curves is called an ogee arch.

This country today, though unfounded and unwise in the circumstances, is in itself the complete proof that could be asked of the quickness with which peoples everywhere will resent and check the suspicion of a paramount nation.

If the campaign of implications and suppositions against the decentralization of the British empire could have any effect at all it would have to be in the long run either the breakup of the empire or the driving of the component nations (Canada, Australia and the United States) into an old-fashioned autocratic empire. The latter isn't possible, for it is against the movement of civilization. If the former were possible, how many sane and unbiased people in the United States would it not have cost many but would look upon it with the greatest trepidation?

NAMED BY FIGURES.

(Ohio State Journal.)

The soviets in Russia propose to abolish Christianity. They will be replaced by numbers. Every child at birth shall be given a number, by which he will be known. So there will be no more Marys or Jennies, or Johnnies or Tommies, but every child will be called 3 or 17 or 18, or whatever the number put upon his little destiny. Of course, it is ridiculous, but it is one of the ways social reform is adopting to abolish all the old-time family relation. The new form of society is not to have any love and filial duty mixed up with it, and it resorts to figures in order to get rid of them. It was George Bernard Shaw, the English dramatist, beyond the pale of human love, just where these soviet figures would place him.

THE LID STAYS ON.

(St. Louis Republic.)

The ruling of Attorney General Palmer that war-time prohibition cannot be lifted until the peace treaty has been ratified will come as a shock to those who had figured on a three months' spell before national dryness sets over the land next January. There had been rather a general belief that the lid would be lifted with the demobilization of the troops, although the law states that the prohibition should remain in effect until after the termination of the war. Mr. Palmer holds that the war will not end until the peace terms are finally disposed of.

There is a slim chance that the president may differ with the attorney general and regard the end of demobilization, which was officially promulgated yesterday, as the time to begin lifting the ban. It is known, however, that Mr. Wilson has followed the advice of Mr. Palmer throughout in his interpretations of the war-time rider, and the possibility of a difference at this time is so remote as to be negligible.

With the senate making interminable speeches and wrangling over scores of amendments to the league of nations covenant, the chances of an early "termination of the war" are not brilliant. Unless action on the treaty is speeded up there is a strong probability that war-time prohibition will be lifted synchronously with the going into effect of construction prohibition. Congress can, of course, take the lid off as soon as it wishes to by appropriate legislation. The St. Louis boys who like their beer and light wines might call on Senator Spencer to redeem his pre-election pledge by introducing a bill immediately to nullify the war-time act.

He has gone on record as calling the war "a rather serious thing and we suppose the view of our leading fellow Republicans is: Well, what can you expect after the Adamson law?—Ohio State Journal.

SAILING SHIPS AGAIN.

(Toledo Blade)

The favorite prey of the ruthless submarines was the sailing ship. She was slow. She could not dodge and zigzag as a steamer could. There were difficulties in camouflaging her. And she presented a target as attractive as a barn.

Not long ago a four-master schooner made the 3,000-mile run from Para, Brazil, to New York in twenty days. What with halts by the way, the regular liners in this trade have made little better time. The advantage which steam has had over sail has been chiefly this matter of time. A new interest, new organization, new blood, might transform the sailing shipping into a thing of life as profitable as the famous packets. No one who has beheld a full rigged ship at sea but can hope so. She is to the steamer what the thoroughbred horse is to a trotter car, slower, but infinitely better to look upon.

"Generally speaking, our tactics were sound," says Ludendorff. The only exception, then, is that the tactics of Foch, Pershing and Haig were still sound.—Charleston News and Courier.

The Sugar Puzzle.

Fear of a shortage of sugar is giving place to a fight with the cane sugar industry. With the cane sugar industry which is being worked on housewives may well be imagined. There is the usual psychological result, a scurrying to and fro looking for sugar. The boards have begun and there is more of a shortage than ever. It is with difficulty one finds humor in a food shortage. It comes here, however, in the excuses which are being offered by dealers and others. Some of them are: Shipments to Europe, lessened production, and then that rare bit of deduction, the statement that with the coming of prohibition men who crave alcohol have been making away with large quantities of sugar. So far as the last is concerned it is to laugh! No doubt the Esquimaux also, are eating too many gumdrops.—Buffalo Commercial.

Mistaken Boston "Highbrows."

A very large number of people—and an unusually high proportion of those living in Boston—have felt that the world has outgrown force. Moral suasion is their cry; there is no need for police or armies. But when the Boston police went on strike a mob of toughs took charge of the town and began a course of loot. It has taken several thousand troops armed with machine guns and rifles, shooting to kill when necessary, to get the situation in hand. The world isn't ready yet to rely on moral suasion. The knowledge that in the last resort force will punish the lawless is what restrains the wild beast element in society.—Kansas City Times.

This answer of Gov. Coolidge's states, in less than 25 words, all that there is to be said about the police strike. The Governor's position is Gibraltar-like in its unassailability. Coolidge's to show that Massachusetts, no less than Seattle, has a man.—New Bedford Standard.

WHY OHIO SHOULD OBSERVE FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Because:
It stands as a monument to American carelessness, commemorating as it does the great Chicago fire.

It is a reminder that Patriotic American people should be constantly on guard against the country's greatest peril!

It calls attention to the dangers of the present and should eradicate dangers of the future.

It reminds us that since January 1, 1913, 178 Ohio people—men, women and children have met death through fire, another 315 have been crippled!

It reminds us that over 90 per cent of these casualties were due to carelessness.

More than 80 per cent of the 2379 fires in one year in homes were due to carelessness or careless conditions!

Children and matches caused an Ohio loss of nearly $75,000 in one year, and that their children, careless with matches, started 357 fires in one year that cost $130,000.

More than 200 buildings unprotected by lightning rods were struck and $350,550 went up in smoke.

Spontaneous combustion caused 193 fires and a loss of $180,210 and that defective fuses, grates, and stovepipes caused departments out 549 times.

The per capita fire loss of the United States, due to careless conditions and to carelessness, is $2.50; in Europe it is 33 cents.

Better construction, more personal liability and less carelessness is needed to bring down the per capita loss.

October 9 is the day when patriotic Ohio people should be able to say whether or not they have done their part toward fire prevention.

Handled by two men, a new electrically operated machine will apply 350 square feet of stucco an hour.

A Victory production telling the amazing story of a woman's gamble

James Warren, she is given opportunity to extend her character portrayal to the utmost.

Probably the most auspicious cast ever assembled for the production of one motion picture was brought together by Director Marshall Neilan for "Her Kingdom of Dreams." Among those who appear in the cast are Tully Marshall, Anna Q. Nilsson, Kathryn Williams, Spittswood, Althea, Ralph Graves, Wesley Barry, Thomas Holding and Edwin D. Tilton.

The theme of the story centers about the work of an unsophisticated country girl whose loyalty to her employer prompts him to ask her to marry the rather irascible son. The marriage, thought to be entirely loveless at first, who can accomplish such a feat, but then, as most people identified with the Lasky studios in California are aware, Mr. Hayakawa is no ordinary man.

"Broken Commandments."

The question, can a woman love two men, is suggested in "Broken Commandments," a new Gladys Brockwell photoplay in which a girl is rescued from the embarrassment of making a choice for her—exactly as she would have settled it, perhaps. "This photoplay comes to the Alhambra Wednesday for two days and advance information regarding it shows it to be an intense human drama—the old triangle in a new setting. The story plainly indicates an ideal role for Miss Brockwell.

Alan Dwan, the director for Reihart, directed all the pictures in which the leading screen artists of the country appeared in. Constance Binney, who recently became famous as the leading woman in Sporting Life, is a star with Reihart, so is Mary Miles Minter, Alice Brady and several others equally well known. D. W. Thomson, the chief sales representative was here yesterday and closed a deal with Mr. Herman Book, to make the Grand theatre the home of Reihart.

Lewis Stone.

Lewis Stone and Jane Novak are making the final appearance in "Man's Desire" at the Grand theatre this evening. Hundreds of people were delighted with the program yesterday. The story told is one of the most interesting and thrilling tales of the lumber camps.

ALHAMBRA
"The City of Dim Faces."

All admirers of Sessue Hayakawa in Paramount pictures, have had occasion to observe that he is not only a highly artistic portrayal of subtle dramatic roles, but that he is an athlete of remarkable energy and skill. He is physically a superior man of his race and his well-known figure indicates that he is a man of extraordinary strength, which he utilizes with telling effect in every picture in which he appears.

In his latest photoplay, "The City of Dim Faces," which will be shown at the Alhambra today and tomorrow, Mr. Hayakawa displays his skill in the Japanese judo or wrestling, when he easily vanquishes two trained wrestlers and throws them over his shoulder scarcely without effort. There are few athletes the Chickasaw Nation, Indian Territory, when Walter first saw the light of day, and afterward he made one of the official sons of the Ojibwa Nation by adoption.

A Double Bill.

Manager Fenberg will offer a big double program at the Alhambra tomorrow afternoon and up until 7 p. m. at which time "The City of Dim Faces" with Sessue Hayakawa in the leading role and Elsie Ferguson in "The Danger Mark." This is a special feature and is made possible by the Alhambra playing the road show, "Miss Blue Eyes" on Tuesday. There will be no advance in prices.

Mr. Hizer said: "Before I purchased a bottle of Nerv-Worth from you I was in a bad nervous condition. Could not digest or assimilate my food and was becoming weak and very much run down. After eating my heart would flutter and intermit and I became very much alarmed. For a year I subsisted on soup. Could not eat anything else. Gas formed in my stomach and I would bloat badly and my stomach was sore and painful. Many nights could not sleep but lay awake all night. Had severe headaches and rheumatic pains in legs and arms. Now after using three bottles of Nerv-Worth I am rid of all the ailments mentioned and am regaining my strength and vigor. The doctors failed to help me in the least. I am thankful that I tried Nerv-Worth as it brought relief right from the start."

Thousands View Dramatic Scene as Pershing Clasps Hands With Belgians' Heroic Primate

Whole City Kept Waiting While Soldier of the Sword and Soldier of the Cross Exchange Greetings.

When General Pershing halted his parade and held all New York waiting for fifteen minutes, while he ran over to greet Cardinal Mercier, every eye in the dense crowds was fastened on the two striking figures of the Soldier of the Cross and the Soldier of the Sword. The heroic Catholic prelate, who had defied all the armies of the Kaiser, bent eagerly forward to grasp both hands of the smiling military chief who had led our army to bend back from Belgium the Hun invaders. For this moment, a racing transport had hurried the Belgian churchman over to the port of New York, only a few hours before the Pershing parade began to march. He had come to this country to thank all Americans for their succor of his oppressed people, and he had begun his mission most happily by being able to thank John J. Pershing, first of all.

Far overseas, in the devastated fields of his home land, Cardinal Mercier first met General Pershing, in the days when the work of the warrior was the only hope of the scattered flock over which this heroic spiritual shepherd stood guard. Since tional Catholic War Council, have come to the aid of the Cardinal. When he has formally expressed his thanks to the whole American nation, he will hurry to Washington to thank the heads of this national working body of his church for all that they have done in establishing schools and various welfare units throughout his country.

To welcome him at the Capital, Cardinal Mercier will find convened the entire hierarchy of the Catholic Church in this country. Cardinal Gibbons has called all the heads of his church together to take council as to the best way to aid this country in solving its post-war problems through the National Catholic War Council. Now that the grim exigencies of warfare are ended, the Catholic Church may rechristen its organization for national service the "National Catholic Welfare Council."

In all its plans for future activities for the nation's good, this historical gathering of church heads will listen eagerly to the voice of the great Belgian prelate whom Pershing delighted to honor.

AN INTERESTING STORY NOW TOLD BY NEWARK MAN

Is Kept Busy Telling His Friends How He Got Rid of a Severe Case of Stomach Trouble and Constipation.

SICK SINCE 1917.

States That Two Bottles of the New Medicine Drecto, Have Done Him a Great Amount of Good.

"I am kept busy these days telling my friends what it is that makes me look so much better and feel like myself again," says Mr. George Angloff of Newark, O.

"My stomach has bothered me very much since back in 1917; seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me, and I soon realized I was cutting out, first one thing and then another, because it did not agree with me. I grew thin, weak and pale, and was the picture of a genuine 'Dyspeptic.' My bowels were also badly constipated, and my liver was inactive, which kept me continually taking physic."

"I've now finished taking the second bottle of Drecto, and my condition shows a remarkable improvement. I can eat many things, which I have denied myself of many times without hurting me afterwards. My color is better; have more strength and feel good all the time, as I get good rest at night. My bowels act regularly every day, without the assistance of other medicines. Drecto surely has proven itself a wonderful medicine in my case."

Drecto is a combination of many different medicinal herbs, plants, that act directly upon the liver, kidneys, stomach, bladder and the blood. It neutralizes the poisons of the system, and causes the organs to take on new life and energy, and rebuild the body. Nothing has a quicker or more effective action in relieving headaches, constipation, neuralgia, biliousness, nervousness, poor appetite, loss of weight, poor sleep, catarrh, gas on the stomach and rheumatism. Drecto does not contain any ash, mercury, or any other harmful mineral.

All good druggists now sell Drecto and it is highly recommended in Newark by Evans' Cut-Rate Drug Store.

AIR COMMANDER IS KILLED IN LANDING

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—Fifteen minutes after Colonel Townsend Dodd, commander of Langley Field, Va., had been killed in landing at the Bustleton Aviation Field, near here, yesterday, a second airplane made a bad landing and three other army officers were injured.

Two of them, Major M. Davis, and Second Lieutenant Charles R. Colt, seriously.

The two airplanes were on their way to Mineola, L. I., from where it was planned to start 50 army aviators on a flight across the continent on Wednesday. Major Davis, in a large Martin bombing plane, was to have made the initial "hopoff."

Colonel Dodd, accompanied by Sergeant C. E. Hess, was piloting a De Havilland four type of machine from Langley Field. He reached the Bustleton Field shortly after 4:30 p. m. and in landing crashed into a tree. The machine was wrecked and Colonel Dodd was wedged so tightly between the engine and gasoline tank that he was literally choked to death.

Sergeant Hess was pitched from the machine into the branches of a tree and escaped with slight bruises.

FAMILY OF 5 IN AUTO KILLED BY O. E. CAR

Springfield, Oct. 6.—A family of five was wiped out at the Ohio Electric crossing of the Valley Pike, just west of Donnellsville, at 4:15 Sunday morning, when a Springfield bound traction car crashed into an automobile bearing Illinois license number 273575.

As identified from a card in the man's pocket the victims are H. C. Cree, Rural Route 4, Wyoming, Ill., his wife and three children.

The man and woman were about 45 years old and the children about three, five and seven.

The automobile was demolished and in the wreckage was the body of a dog, evidently the pet of the children. Bits of surplus clothing, food and a bag of apples and potatoes, together with cooking utensils scattered in the wreckage indicated the family had been camping along the route. A Chambersburg pennant was on the car.

Conductor Dan Jones and Motorman Charles Marrah, in charge of the car, continued on their trip to Columbus after the accident.

ASKS D'ANNUNZIO TO WAIT.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The Duke of Aosta has gone to Florence, being charged by the government to ask Captain D'Annunzio not to extend his operations about that city but to wait a decision by the allies relative to the situation, according to advices from Rome.

OCTOBER 9TH IS FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Thousands of cities and towns throughout the country will observe Fire and Accident Prevention Day on October 9th of this year. This is an annual day set aside for cleaning up rubbish and taking other prevention measures to protect buildings and houses against the menace of fire.

The date was chosen by the National Fire Protection Association, and is officially adopted by local fire departments. It is the anniversary of the disastrous Chicago fire which wiped out nearly the whole city in 1871.

At the request of this Association many manufacturers of appliances having fire prevention uses are aiding the observance of this day by urging their dealers to make a special demonstration of the protective and preventive features of these products on Fire Prevention Day.

The American Ever Ready Works, makers of Daylo, the electric flashlight, are supplying Daylo dealers in this city with a complete window display showing the dangers of fire from the use of matches, candles and lamps, and the freedom from danger offered by their handy lights.

In urging the importance of fire prevention, the Association calls attention to the fact that $290,000,000 worth of property was destroyed in the United States by fire during 1918. Ninety per cent of this loss was due to preventable causes, and fifty-three per cent was due to causes having their origin in the homes of the people.

PANHANDLES HELD TO TIE BY MACK GRAYS

Zanesville, Oct. 7.—Columbus Panhandles played the Zanesville Mark Grays to a scoreless tie here yesterday on a field soaked with rain. At no time did the home team have a chance to score as play was constantly in their territory. The visitors were on the home team's one-yard line three times, but were unable to put the ball over, fumbling being very noticeable due to the slippery condition of the ball. Ted Nesser, Snoots and Beck with played well for the Panhandles, while Lawson, Jones and Richard starred for the Mark Grays. Rogers, of Newark, played part of the game as a substitute.
